LB 278A

look at other aspects of the bill than just those technical things that I've talked about so far.

PRESIDENT ROBAK: Thank you, Senator Chambers. We have several guests visiting the Legislature today. Senator Ray Janssen announces that the following guests are visiting us, in the south balcony there are 45 fifth graders here from Clarkson Elementary with their teacher (introduced teacher). They are from Fremont. Will you all stand, please. And there are 35 fifth graders here from Northside School in Fremont. (Introduced teachers.) They are also in the north balcony. Will you all stand and be recognized also. In addition, Senator Chambers announces that there are 48 tenth through twelfth graders here from North High School in Omaha. (Introduced teachers.) They are seated in the north balcony. Will you all stand and be recognized, please. And Senator Bromm announces that Larry Dauel, Abner Dauel, and Gladys Dauel, from Malmo and Wahoo, Nebraska are seated under the south balcony. Will you all stand and be recognized as well. Welcome to the Nebraska Legislature. Senator Brown, your light is next.

SENATOR BROWN: Madam President, members of the body, I will make this brief. In response to some of the things that Senator Chambers was just bringing up as his concerns about the bill, I would just remind him that in very many cases the evidence that is gained through DNA has been used to free people who are unjustly convicted. And so that's the other piece of it. We are talking about finding a process by which we can put together information that's going to help us not only in convicting people who rightly deserve to be convicted, but also in freeing those people who might deserve to be free.

PRESIDENT ROBAK: Thank you, Senator Brown. Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Madam President, members of the Legislature, I accept what Senator Brown said. Senator Abboud mentioned it. I agreed with it. But, Senator Brown, with all due respect to you and Senator Abboud and those who support this bill, that part about some innocent people being freed is the bone that is thrown to the junkyard dog to keep him quiet while they go in and pillage the junkyard. The main purpose of this bill is to get as many people as possible into a data bank. The FBI
